

Financial Strength and Mutuality

Strength you can count on

Exceptional service shouldn't be an exception

It is important to select a life insurance partner that will remain financially strong and can be counted on for day-to-day service and future claims.

The spirit of mutuality

For us, mutuality means doing what is right for our customers while acting in the best long-term interest of our organization.

Our values

Our spirit of mutuality is based on fundamental values that support our commitment to fulfilling our obligations. On this strong foundation of timeless values, we have built a culture characterized by relationships of trust.

Here for the long run

Employers recognize that life insurance plays an important part in the financial well-being of employees and we remain financially strong to be there when they need us most.

We are considered among the highest rated group life insurance companies by the major independent rating agencies that analyze the financial soundness and claims-paying ability of insurance companies.

Minnesota Life's ratings as of November 30, 2009 are as follows:
